

Artform: Kerala Mural Paintings

Kerala mural paintings stand as a testament to the rich cultural heritage of Kerala, India. Originating from ancient traditions, these paintings are renowned for their intricate details and vibrant colors. They predominantly depict scenes from Hindu epics such as the Ramayana and Mahabharata, alongside Puranic stories and representations of deities. Characterized by elaborate designs and fine brushwork, Kerala murals capture the essence of classical artistry in their portrayal of cultural narratives and mythological tales.

Artwork: Kathakali Dance Being Performed in a Temple

Within the realm of Kerala mural paintings, the depiction of Kathakali holds a special place. Kathakali, a classical dance-drama originating from Kerala, embodies the eternal conflict between good and evil through vivid performances. This mural intricately portrays a Kathakali performance set within the sanctum of a temple, capturing the essence of this traditional art form. The artwork vividly showcases the elaborate costumes, expressive gestures, and intricate makeup that define Kathakali, highlighting its cultural significance and artistic grandeur.

Artist: Prasanth AV

Prasanth AV is a versatile artist, sculptor, illustrator, painter, and cartoonist hailing from Kerala. His dedication to the arts has garnered him recognition, including the prestigious Kerala Lalit Kala Academy award in Sculpture. Prasanth AV's artworks, including his celebrated mural at the Guruvayoor Temple, reflect his deep-rooted passion for preserving and promoting Kerala's artistic traditions. With a portfolio spanning exhibitions, camps, and workshops, he continues to enrich the cultural landscape through his artistic endeavours.

Location of the Artwork- Bharat Mandapam, New Delhi

